Concentration in Religious Studies – Semester Conversion

A motion was made to discuss the concentration in Religious Studies.

Motion: Wong

Second: Salmon

Associate Dean Chester recommended including the concentration in Religious Studies into the Philosophy, BA. He will discuss the idea with Professor Moreman. Associate Dean Chester also suggested the following changes, move PHIL 342 – Religions of Asia to the core of the concentration and PHIL 341 – Abrahamic Religions to the list of electives. The language in the schema needs to be edited to accurately let students know the classes they need to take and what they are electives. The concentration in its entirety needs to be reduced by 3 units.

If students opt to take PHIL 342 – Religions of Asia, it should be through advising.

Professor Salmon pointed out that there are two courses listed at the bottom of the concentration which are incomplete in their listing. The first is Ethic Studies, God is Red: American Indian Worldview, the course number is 307. Also there is a question as to whether ES 3185, African American Religion is being converted. Liz Graw will check with Professor Salomon and be in touch with Professor Moreman.

A motion was made to approve the Concentration in Religious Studies proposal with minor edits.

Vote: Approved unanimously.

Philosophy, B.A. – Semester Conversion

Motion: Wong

Second: Kashinath

Minor edits are needed to the schema. The department may want to add PHIL 242 – Introduction to Asian Religion, Associate Dean Chester will talk with Professor Moreman.

Give the suggestion to add the Religious Studies concentration into the degree proposal and a few other things, this degree proposal will be held over to the next meeting for a vote.

Philosophy Course Proposals – Semester Conversion

A motion was made to discuss Philosophy course proposals as a block.

Motion: Eros

Second: Salmon

Professor Salmon asked about the title of PHIL 381 – Shamanism. He would like the department to consider adding the word Indigenous to the title. Associate Dean Chester will bring the concern to the attention of Professor Moreman. Professor Salmon does not feel that is enough to hold up the passing of the course proposal.
